Oh Great, another stupid newsletter!

Not Your Average Birdcage Liner

Wisconsin, August 2009 API. Looks real enough to almost make you want to read it; almost, but not quite. Well all the marketing stuff I've read said, "Stay in touch with a newsletter." Right, like anybody really wants to hear about what some dopey VO person is doing; especially some weird guy who uses some creepy dude for his branding image. Well I'm SURE you'll want to hear about what I'M doing—NOT!

Anyway, here is the first installment of what I'm sure, insert sarcastic sounds here, you all have been waiting for, The Voice of Temptation's News Letter. Oh Boy, I'm soooo excited I could hurl. I'll try to keep it interesting, and it will make a good birdcage liner at the very least.

Old man proves he can't keep up with the kids! So Why Would Anybody Jump Out of a Perfectly Good Airplane?

East Troy, WI Aug 2009 USA. <--I like to use that entry like it's a real press release—impressive 'eh? So anyway, the jump for the Diabetes cure went dandy. Nobody died and that's always a plus. The Sky Knights Sport Parachute Club raised over two-thousand bucks for Research for Children's Diabetes.

Petranech's outstanding efforts coughed up a measly $120. He may as well have stayed home, like he had to do the next day because his entire body ached from packing the previous day. What a pansy.

Here is Petranech on Sunday, in bed, proclaiming what a wonderful job he did for the cause. At the foot of his bed, Archimedes refused to comment on the embarrassment Petranech caused. One of the members attending was heard to say, "What ever happened to growing old gracefully?"

Editors note: The accepted Voice Over advice is to never let your customers know how old you are. I kept it pretty well hid here 'eh? Hey, why does that guy have his hand on my leg?!?

YOUR AD HERE! Be the first on your block, hell the entire city, to run an ad in the world renowned Voice of Temptation News Letter. Editors Note: I can see the revenue pouring in from this

No vanity in this guy's family No, Because He Has it All!

I just had to include this cause I thought it was a scream. No not the picture, the story to follow. OK well I suppose the picture is a scream, OK not a scream, but. Where was I going with this? Oh yeah. I digress.

So this place I know had a silent auction for the cure for cancer. People donated all sorts of fine things for sale. You know stuff you can really use.

Well I wanted to do my part too, being the altruistic guy I am, so I donated my picture, autographed with "xoxoxoxo, Michael." Now that's what I'm talking about, nothing but a self sacrificing, go all out for the cause kinda guy.

Yer gonna freak! The G.M. of the company coughed up $500 to win the photo.

My very own stalker, I'm so proud.

NEXT ISSUE: "If I only had a brain" Petranech jumps out of a helicopter. V.O.T. interviews world famous voice over actor Michael A. Petranech. Who? PLUS: Petranech enters Conan O'Brians Blow up my car contest.
